Planning For The Future

FOR OVER a year a group of citizens of Bulloch county have been working quietly and diligently.

For months these people have been devoting their time and energies to ferreting out facts and figures regarding the biggest problem of our community—the needs of the schools of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

Realizing that before the problem could be worked out intelligently and effectively these citizens looked at the problem from every angle.

They first recognized the fact that something must be done about the schools of Bulloch county.

They got together for the first time in February of last year and set themselves the task of making an exhaustive survey of our schools.

At first the work moved slowly. Then, before Christmas last year, with the situation getting almost desperate, the group stepped up their work pace and have now completed their task.

The survey is complete and the reports of the findings are about ready to be made.

We ordinarily think of the schools of Bulloch county as being among the best in the state—but the findings of this citizens committee causes us to amend our thinking.

For the report of the program planning committee of the survey shows many inadequacies in the schools of Bulloch.

There is a sad need for laboratories in the high schools to provide students with experiences necessary for a scientific and technological age... more course in vocational education, such as machine shop, electrical maintenance, mechanical drawing, etc., should be added to the curriculum... guidance services are limited... facilities for musical instruction are inadequate... the lunchrooms in all of the schools are working under adverse conditions... libraries should have regular librarians... special services should be offered exceptional children... special consideration should be given to slow learners, speech defectives, cripples, sight defectives, and others.

The committee investigated the growth, constancy, or decline in total population of the areas served by the Bulloch county school system. They investigated the trends in enrollment, average daily attendance, resident births. Maps have been prepared showing the residence of every child in school in the county. Maps have been prepared showing the route each school bus makes in the county. It was found that some children are spending as much as four hours a day riding a bus to and from school.

A committee investigated the present school plants. They determined the size of the buildings, the sizes of the rooms, the lighting, the ceilings, the floors, the equipment, the number of pupils per room, heating system, toilet facilities, the source of drinking water... and a score of other facts.

Another committee determined the general administration and the organization of the schools.

The findings of this citizens committee are to be delivered into the hands of educational experts who will be invited to Statesboro and Bulloch county. These experts will in turn make a survey and with the findings of the committee and their own findings make recommendations of what should be done for our schools.

These recommendations are to be made to the people of Bulloch county, and the rest is in their hands.

But the thing that makes this survey so important is that it was made by our people. Roger Holland was chairman of one committee, Lehman Dekle of the Register community, another; R. C. Roberts of the Groveland community, another; and J. Harry Lee of the Brooklet community, another. The committee members are from all over Bulloch county—every section.

These people spent long hours in the schools—checking, asking questions, making notes. They spent more long hours compiling their findings and making up their reports.

And their fellow citizens and neighbors will be doing the right thing to follow where they lead them, and support them in their great work to raise our schools to their proper level for the good of our youth.

The editors of reputable newspapers in the state of Georgia do not print "wild charges" and untruths.

When they print what they do, you can be sure that they have evidence in their hands which gives them the courage to print it and the security they feel when it's printed—be it the church notice furnished by the preacher or the editorial charging an individual or group of individuals with actions which violate the welfare of the citizens of the community in which his newspaper serves.

Most newspapers—including the big ones—have a deep love for the communities they serve. They serve with a broad sense of responsibility to the citizens making up their communities.

We're not afraid of these newspaper bills—if they pass. We believe that there's none of the editors of the Georgia Press afraid of these bills.

But we do question the motives prompting this consideration. We've been critical of our public officials in our editorial columns, and our readers have respected us for it.

We've been critical of conditions allowed by private individuals in our community, and our readers have expressed their agreement.

We've said some pretty hard things in our newspapers when conditions warranted it.

But before we allowed ourselves to publish our criticisms we searched out the facts, we studied them, and then asked ourselves—Is what we are about to write stem from personal feelings? Is it malicious?

If we can sincerely say "yes" to the first question and "no" to the other two, then we write, and print what we write.

And our constitution-given right to the liberty of speech and freedom of the press gives us the courage to go on printing what we think to be the good for our community.

And the moment we become afraid of a "whip" in the hands of any man—that's when we suspend publishing our newspaper. And if the legislature gives Governor Talmadge that "whip" we want the people of the community to whom we are dedicated to know that it will be like a fire built under us to go on doing what we think to be right.

We'll abide by the law—we'll give any person, any group, any official, equal space, in the same prominence in our paper to answer—but he or they better be right too!

Fable of Two Men Approaching the Gates of a City

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

THERE IS A FABLE about two men approaching the gates of a city from different directions. As one reached the gate he exclaimed over the beautiful gold inscription on the arch above the gate. The other, in strong disagreement, replied that it was not a gold but a silver inscription. Harsh words led to blows and in a fight which followed, the first man was knocked inside the gate and the second man found himself on the outside of the gate.

The first man looked up to discover that from where he stood the inscription was silver; and the second man, likewise, saw that from where he stood the inscription was gold.

The moral of this little story, of course, is, that before one disagrees with another he should see the question from where the other stands, as well as from where he stands.

Why would in the state it is now, it seems that what is needed more than anything on earth is an understanding of one another. We need diplomats as never before in our history. It would be wise if we could have an all-out educational campaign to study, first, ourselves and second, our neighbors—those at home and abroad.

Often times we don't even understand ourselves, so the work should begin at home. We should know each other as we know ourselves.

And so we apologize to all our young friends who play basketball at the recreation center and all the young musicians in the band. And we assure you that in the future we'll leave out something the

Editor's Uneasy Chair

WERE IN THE had graces of two groups of young'uns in Statesboro, and it makes us sad.

And we know that if we make any attempt to make things right with them we'll only put our big feet deeper into our big mouth.

Except this is a case of not city from different directions. As one reached the gate he exclaimed over the beautiful gold inscription on the arch above the gate. The other, in strong disagreement, replied that it was not a gold but a silver inscription. Harsh words led to blows and in a fight which followed, the first man was knocked inside the gate and the second man found himself on the outside of the gate.

Last week Mr. Ginton McLendon, director of the high school Blue Devils Band, sent us in two stories on the band.

And about the same time a fairly big ad came in. When the paper was put together and ready to be printed we were faced with the unhappy fact that we did not have enough space to print both the advertising and the two stories for the youth about the things dearest to their young hearts—their basketball games and their band. It made us sad and we were most unhappy about it all.

But we felt victim to a temptation too great for our weak character to resist—we printed the ad.

For without that ad and others like it we would be unable to force in our history. It would be wise if we could have an all-out educational campaign to study, first, ourselves and second, our neighbors—those at home and abroad.

Often times we don't even understand ourselves, so the work should begin at home. We should know each other as we know ourselves.

And so we apologize to all our young friends who play basketball at the recreation center and all the young musicians in the band. And we assure you that in the future we'll leave out something the gownfolk brought in for us to print. We'd much rather have them mad at us than to have the youth of our city and county down on us.

WE WERE in Savannah last Saturday and had a long visit with a former resident of Statesboro—Mr. Jake Pine.

Mr. Pine still holds a place in his heart for Statesboro and Bulloch county. We talked about our community, its people. He was interested in the new businesses opened up since his moving to Savannah... the college... the new homes here... the new people moving in... We asked him about some photographs near his desk: "Those your children?"—and then he controlled the conversation.

It was good seeing him. He sends his regards to Statesboro and Bulloch county.

OUTSIDE the sun was shining, and it was beginning to warm up and we got to talking about fishing while in the barber shop.

THE ALMANAC SAYS TODAY, Feb. 8, will be clear. FRIDAY, Feb. 9, will be clear. SATURDAY, Feb. 10, frosts. SUNDAY, Feb. 11, will be clear. MONDAY, Feb. 12, unsettled. TUESDAY, Feb. 13, fair. WEDNESDAY, Feb. 14, warmer.

BUT DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG...

That's just the way it was told to us.

ALL'S FAIR... By Jane

(With apologies to everyone)

Waah bein' yo' ears, bresh yo' hair til hit shines;

You sho don't wanner miss bein' one of dese Valentines.

Likewise, wi de yahds and dese ole vacant lots—

Yo' gotta bresh and cut 'em; we don't want no ugly spots.

De Civic Garden Club done deliver an utti mattum.

An' now hit's up to us to get up and at 'em.

Why, dis here town j'es bleeged to look neat as ebbes was,

'Cause dese here folks fum way up north, with slick and shiny cahs.

Mus' think we's Quality and not po' folks wiv lazy ways.

No sun! Dere'll soon be spring weather and good ole summer days.

We c'n plow up all dese lots, or burn 'em off; make 'em spic an' span.

Mister Logan Hagin, wid his firah truck will stan' by; he a mighty fine man.

He won't let dat fish spread and burn down yo' house;

He'll look on dem flames lak a cat at a mouse.

An' den when al ober town hit's spruced up and clean,

Oh, hit'll sho be purty, lak a picture in a scene.

An' we'll all be happy, 'cause we done sic a passel of work.

You'll stand right up straight and say, "I nebber shirk

'We keeps dis city clean." Now dat's a fac, we know,

'Cause let me tell you somp'n, we's done hit befo.

SEE BY THE PAPERS that Mrs. Charles Brannen received a nylon nightgown at Ben Dot Peck's party. Now, Mary, that takes us back to the days when we wore boudoir caps, wondrously and carefully made of lace or nets, ribbons by the yards in every color you fancied. You wore them to conceal all sorts of curling thimbababbs.

It is not too much fun to recall the time when someone alighted mine and put tiny baby mice in the treasured cap. I'm kinder funny about mice, but I loved my boudoir cap. Yes, World War I was a time for flapper ways. Now we have nylon, plastic, and an atom bomb—and the outlook is gloomy.

Let's keep hoping. It's keep helping. Let's keep praying.

YES, IT'S CLEAN-UP TIME in Statesboro. The Civic Garden Club is sponsoring a clean-up program. These women in the club are making a special appeal to owners of vacant lots. They say burn them off and turn them under, or plow them and turn them under. You have the assurance of Fire Chief Logan Hagin that if you will call him before you set fire to rubbish on your lot that he will stand by with proper fire-fighting equipment until all danger is over. Make your vacant lot as attractive as your grounds are around your home. It is a matter of civic pride.

A LOVELY YOUNG GIRL, whose wedding was scheduled for June, has changed her plans. She will have a church wedding in March. For her wedding dress she is using one worn by her cousin, the former Evelyn James, of Blackhear, who attended Georgia Teachers College. She is now Mrs. Norris Strickland, and in March she and her husband are coming to make their home in Statesboro, where Mr. Strickland will attend T. C. of course, we are referring to Sara Betty Jones. Sara Betty says her cousin's wedding dress is lovely. The material, brought from Japan by the bride's brother, is exquisite hand embroidered sheer silk, with flowers outlined in gossamer stitches and beautiful cut-work effect.

Sara Betty will probably be finishing final exams on the day before her wedding on the eighteenth, but, even so, we believe Sara Betty will go through them like a breeze. Her plans are to teach with the groom at Woodbury in the Meriwether County High School. She and her husband will attend summer sessions at T. C.

Cold Weather Is No Hinderance To Middleground F.B. Meetings

Cold weather is no excuse for missing a Farm Bureau meeting.

J. L. Deal, presiding officer, stated when he saw about the largest group Middleground has had at a meeting in sometime present last Thursday night.

It was cold, very cold. It had rained, and the weather was unsettled. But the group turned out about 100 per cent. Mr. Deal recalled that some four or five years ago they had a storm in that section of the county, closing quite a number of roads. But it was their Farm Bureau meeting night, so they went to the meeting. Attendance that night was around 100 per cent of the membership.

But, Mr. Deal said, Middleground tries to do things 100 per cent. That is why practically every farmer is a member of the Farm Bureau.

Ivanhoe and Middleground discussed the possibility of growing peas under contract, where frozen food companies wanted to contract for blackeyed peas at $65 per ton. Several expressed interest in the view work done so far in the county. The need for those desiring telephone to try to work up lines in their respective communities was pointed out, along with the need for more signers. The more desiring phones, the cheaper the monthly charge and the necessary deposit. There will be approximately eight phones per line. Those wanting phones in a particular neighborhood can secure that many, or more, signers to insure getting phones for themselves.

A motion picture, "Dr. Jim," was a part of both programs last week.

UNDER SECURITY DEED

Whereas, heretofore, on February 27, 1942, J. H. German did execute to Arthur Howard, a certain security deed to the following land:

That certain lot of land situated and being in the City of Statesboro, 120th G. M. District of Bulloch County, Georgia, bounded North by lands of J. H. German, East by lands of S. F. Olliff, South by lands of J. H. German and West by Murray Street, being Lot No. 47, described in deed from the D. & S. R. Co. to L. C. Haynes dated February 9th, 1892, and recorded September 8th, 1893, in Book Y, page 464; said lot fronting on Murray Street two hundred fifty feet to lands of S. F. Olliff estate; to secure a note of even date therewith for One Hundred Fifty and 29/100 Dollars, all as shown by a security deed recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Bulloch County, Georgia, in book 150, page 85; and

In default as to principal and interest, and the undersigned elects that the entire note, principal and interest, become due at once;

Now, therefore, according to the original terms of said security deed and the laws in such cases made and provided, the undersigned will expose for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash the above described land, after proper advertisement, on the first Tuesday in March, 1951, before the legal hours of sale before the courthouse door in Statesboro, Bulloch County, Georgia. The proceeds from said sale will be used, first, to the payment of said note, principal, interest and expenses,

"EXHIBIT C"
Excerpt from minutes of stockholders' meeting of the Bullock County Bank held January 9, 1961.

"The matter of increasing our capital stock was brought up for discussion, this matter having been recommended to our stockholders by the board of directors. The feeling was unanimous that our capital stock should be increased thus adding strength to the capital structure of our bank as well as showing to the public the fact that our stockholders believe very firmly that the future outlook of our county and section is very good. In addition to this the return to our stockholders was discussed and after the stock is increased it was felt that as earnings justify our stockholders could receive a return on their investment. The legal procedure necessary to accomplish this was discussed and Mr. Aldred then made a motion which was seconded by Mr. Smith that the 100% stock dividend be paid share for share to our presence."

Agriculture In Bulloch County Has No Limit States Farmers

The only real limit to the progress of agriculture in Bulloch county is the ability of the land to produce. Farmers in Bulloch have shown a willingness to develop this ability to the limit.

These farmers have found that lime and phosphate help man and nature to utilize the power of the land.

Farmers in the county are combining these minerals to increase the productivity of their soil to the extent of some 2,500 tons of 13 per cent phosphate in 1950, some 500 tons of 20 per cent phosphate, 70 tons of 64 per cent phosphate, and nearly 5,000 tons of lime in addition to 120 tons of basic slag. This is in addition to the regular fertilizer treatment used on row crops, pastures, and orchards.

Starting 10 years ago with 11 unit test farms, where the full value of added minerals to all crops was tested, the practice of using and abundance of phosphate and lime has increased until today the limiting factors are securing these minerals and applying them.

Bill Mikell, county PMA agent, procured three large trucks especially designed for delivering and broadcasting these elements over the land.

Through the cooperation of W. T. Bennett, director of agricultural development for the Central and Georgia Railway Company, and several fertilizer companies, plans were worked out whereby phosphate and lime could be delivered here in bulk. PMA payments for the use of such products do not to the stimulating effect that demonstrations started.

Phosphate and lime aided the legumes used in summer and winter programs for soil maintenance and grazing. These minerals remain in the soil to help produce more cotton, corn, peanuts, etc., per acre.

The 1950 tonnage of phosphate and lime in Bulloch county was not considerably, Mr. Mikell said, because of weather conditions which prevented his getting into the fields, and the inability to get deliveries at times when he could deliver it.

Bulloch farmers are realizing more and more that minerals help here by ancient mountains, prehistoric plains, and hosts of lowly creatures bred and nourished here have been leached out by rain and sun and taken from the soil by crops.

The action now being taken by these farmers would indicate they have pledged themselves to use their heritage and hold its maintenance as a trust sublime.

Emory Alumni Meet Here Tonight

Alumni and friends of Emory University from the Statesboro area will join with cities all over the nation to celebrate the university's 114th birthday when the local group holds a dinner at the Forest Heights Country Club tonight at 7:30 p. m.

Highlight of the dinner program will be an informal talk by Robert P. Whitaker, superintendent of the Emory University Hospital. Mr. Whitaker, who has been with the Emory staff since 1931, is former president of the Georgia Hospital Association, chairman of the Atlanta Hospital Superintendents' Council and former secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern Hospital Conference. He will give a brief report on the state of the university.

The Statesboro District, which has sent out invitations to 66 alumni and parents of 13 students now at Emory from this area, includes Brooklet, Claxton, Collegeboro, Hagan, Millhaven, Newington, Parkersburg, Port Republic, Statesboro, Sylvania, and Woodville.

Mrs. Charles Grimes and Mrs. Cap Mallard represented the Maxwell store at the fashion show in Atlanta Sunday and Monday.

Miss Viola Perry, Mrs. Gladys DeLoach and Mrs. Carlos Brunson were luncheon guests of Miss Dorothy Thomas at the Pink House in Savannah last Saturday.

Methodist Revival Continuing Now

The revival services at the Statesboro Methodist Church continue this week with Rev. Frank Q. Echols, pastor-evangelist, from Odumtown, as the guest preacher. The services began on Wednesday evening of last week with the singing of hymns at 7:45.

Mr. Clay Milby of Odumtown, is leading the singing and is the guest soloist.

Rev. John Lough in commenting on the meeting said, "Mr. Milby's gospel messages in song will strangely warm your heart. We are most fortunate in having this excellent evangelistic team come our way."

In speaking about the guest preacher Rev. Lough says, "Rev. Echols is one of the most successful pastor-evangelists in the North Georgia Conference."

Services on Sunday morning will be at 11:30. The evening services will be at 7:30. Rev. Echols will bring the message at both these Sunday services.

Religious Week At T.C. Begins Sun.

Five addresses by Dr. Bernard Boyd, chairman of the department of religion at the University of South Carolina, will head the program for Religious Week at Georgia Teachers College Sunday through Friday.

Using the theme, "What Does Religion Mean to You?" Dr. Boyd will speak in the college auditorium on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights and on Thursday morning.

The week will open with a vesper service Sunday night and will include, in addition to Dr. Boyd's addresses, morning and evening services and twilight worship Monday through Friday.

John W. Smith, educational director of the First Baptist Church, Statesboro, and Baptist student secretary at the college, will lead the twilight services.

The observance is sponsored by the college Student Christian Association, which rotates the speaking assignment among the members of denominations represented on the campus. Sanford W. Brown, Dawson minor, is president of the association.

Dr. Boyd, a Presbyterian minister, formed the department of religion at North Carolina last fall after serving as professor of Bible and Christian education at the University of South Carolina and as principal at Princeton University and University of Edinburgh.

Those with cattle on feed this year are Jappy Atkins, Lynn Murphy, Elmer Alford, Jimmie Dell, Cecil Kennedy, Jr., Roger and Raymond Hagan, Dermen Morton, Jack Lanier, James Williams, Billy Clifton, Joyce Mallard, Marie and Clara Nell Roberts, Butler Lewis, Rose Miller, Erastus Bird, Jr., Carolyn Wilson, Jo Nell Lanier, Wilbur Waters, Sammie Nevils, and friends.

George Hagin Jr. is patrol leader. Members are: Joe Olliff, Lindell Roberts, Al DeLoach, Skip Aldred, Smets Blitch, and David Parrish.

The display consisted of examples of handicraft made by members of the patrol.
